BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

The Los Alamos County boards and commissions are composed of citizen volunteers, appointed by the County Council, working closely with County staff. The Planning and Zoning Commission and the Utilities Board have special authorities. Other boards serve in advisory capacity only. Current memberships, vacancies and application forms can be obtained from the County web site www.losalamosnm.us.

Planning and Zoning Commission

Considers long-range planning and land development issues. Acts as the Zoning Commission for the County, and as such may act as a regulatory commission whose decisions may be appealed to the County Council.

Board of Public Utilities

Establishes policies for the operation of the utility systems, sets rates, and creates the utility department budget subject to the review and approval of Council.
